

My name is Stephanie Hall, Owner and Operator of THAT DESIGN CHICK, a successful Web Design and Development firm with an emphasis on Branding and Marketing.

THAT DESIGN CHICK focuses on the needs of the customer in order to help generate business to increase profitability and overall success.

The strength and success of my company lies in the ability to deliver exceptional results at an incredibly low price point coupled with outstanding customer service while providing an end to end solution.

I invest time and energy into building relationships with my customers. I provide solutions to short term needs that lend themselves later to closer reaching the long term goal. Often this would not be possible because of budget constraints.

I price match all my competitors, deliver on deadlines, hold myself accountable to the customer as they are “my boss”, without them, I would not be able to do this. Without me, they would not be able to do “THAT”.

I appreciate you allowing me to discuss what I do, and I always appreciate business referrals.

With Respect,

THAT
DESIGN CHICK
What THAT can do for you

THAT Design Chick is a freelance designer for partial projects, small businesses or small budgets. I'm the one you call when you don't know who else is going to do THAT.

I save you money.
I make you money.
I make you look as good as you actually are... sometimes better.
I make the difference in the way others see you.
I make the difference in the way you see yourself.
I make it my job to jumpstart your success.
I make it happen... and THAT is no joke.

MISSION statement

Going above and beyond your expectations.
Priced below the norm so it's within your reach.

It is our mission to provide the best customer experience delivering quality design work while maintaining a low price point. Going above and beyond expectations of the client in hopes to increase their success.

We promise to be engaging.
We promise to be understanding of your needs.
We promise to deliver by the deadline.
We promise to never compromise on quality.
We promise to do what is in the best interest of the customer.
We promise to continually grow and learn, improving ourselves in order to be of better service to meet your needs.

We believe in open door policies that allow lasting relationships to form while fostering growth potential across multiple marketing lines.

We believe better than expected results provide the tools for a good solid reputation and positive influence impacting mutual success.
